PENGUIN GROUP (USA) CORPORATE STATEMENT

The book publishing industry has always fought against censorship of any kind. While the opinions of and statements made by Edward Klein, the author of The Truth About Hillary, published by Sentinel on June 21, 2005, do not reflect the opinions and viewpoints of Penguin Group (USA) or our parent company, Pearson plc, Penguin Group (USA)'s commitment to defending our authors' right to be heard extends to every author we publish.

Penguin Group (USA) publishes approximately 3,500 new books each year through our numerous imprints. Our books represent a broad range of views, touching on every point of the political compass. With regard to Penguin Group (USA)'s editorial standards, it is the long-established and legally recognized practice in book publishing that it is the author's responsibility to assure factual accuracy.

Mr. Klein's book received the same legal scrutiny that Penguin Group (USA) undertakes for other nonfiction books that it publishes, and during that process the author satisfied Sentinel that he could support statements in the book now under attack. What should also be understood is that factual accuracy does not mean unopinionated or unbiased. Mr. Klein's interpretation and characterization of what he reports is unabashedly his opinion. Neither he nor Sentinel pretend otherwise. He has the absolute right to express that opinion, and it now is for the reading public to decide whether he makes his case.

Having said that, it is also important to note that Penguin Group (USA) has never let public opinion or the media dictate what we will or will not publish.
